LEISURE

Asian Black Bears

by Aidan

Did you know that there are about 89 Asian Black Bears living on Jirisan? They are also known as "moon bears." The bears were almost extinct until the government started a restoration project in 2004. Since then, many new baby bears have been born. However, for hikers the growing number of bears on the mountain can prove to be very dangerous. When you hike on Jirisan, you will see many "bear bells" that you can ring if a bear approaches. Apparently the bears don't like the sound. You can also buy smaller bear bells that make ringing sounds as you walk. You can see many hikers using them on the trail. I really wonder if these bells are effective at all. There are many signs on the hiking trails telling you what to do if you meet bears, such as walk slowly away, don't take pictures and basically try to get out of there quietly and keep alive! I didn't see any bears myself but maybe that's for the best.

They look so friendly but...

...they really aren't friendly!

ITEMS

Backpack

by Aidan

The backpack is very heavy

When you go hiking, you need a backpack. The backpack can be very heavy. You have to take food. You have to take water. You have to take clothing. You have to take medicine. Hiking with a backpack is hard!

Don't forget ramyeon!

WORDS

LEISURE

Mountain Trail

by Hannah Mocke

The mountain trail on Jirisan is very long. It goes up and down like a roller coaster. Every time you go up a hill, you can be sure there will be a downhill following it. After that, another tough uphill and another downhill.

The difficulty of Jirisan comes from the length of the course and that the ground is very often not flat. You have to climb up many large rocks and then climb down even more rocks on the other side. Sometimes the rocks are slippery, too, so you have to be very careful.

Hiking starts very early!

The trail is not easy

mountain trail	등산로	tough	힘든
roller coaster	롤러코스터	another	또 다른
uphill	오르막	climb up	오르다
downhill	내리막	slippery	미끄러운

GEOGRAPHY

Jirisan

by Aidan

Have you heard of Jirisan? This iconic and expansive mountain range dominates the southern expanse of South Korea, traversing the administrative boundaries of Jeonbuk, Jeonnam, and Gyeongnam provinces. Standing majestically at 1915 meters, it proudly claims its place as the nation's second-highest peak, surpassed only by Hallasan on Jeju Island.

Distinct from many international trekking destinations, Jirisan offers strategically placed shelters providing essential amenities such as readily available water refills, instant rice, and powdered energy drinks. These communal spaces facilitate self-catering and, with prior reservation, offer overnight accommodation. While basic restrooms are provided, handwashing facilities are notably absent, necessitating the use of wet wipes. Though the ascent typically commences at 2:30 AM, involving two arduous days of trekking, for avid hikers, Jirisan promises an undeniably unforgettable and profoundly rewarding experience

There are many waterfalls

You need a headlamp

The scenery is beautiful

This is where we started

...it was very, very windy...
